PROFILE

This transformation within my life comes from a strong passion for helping people and wanting people to find peace and simplicity in their day. With that said, I want to take that passion and help create user-centric designs that improve digital experiences. My past experiences as a manager and also being within the cannabis industry really polished me to be a better leader and overall a more understanding human, allowing me to better create connections between people of all ages and backgrounds. This has now prepared me for a better way for me to help humans, by introducing digital ways to create peace within their lives.
