PROFILE

I am a results-oriented Full Stack developer with a strong technical background in robotic process automation (RPA) and web development. This foundation in RPA fortifies my understanding of tech, empowering me to create more effective and innovative solutions. My background in Social Work not only enhances my appreciation of diverse user needs, but also bolsters my ability to communicate complex topics effectively. I am passionately committed to using my expertise in human understanding to design applications that not only resonate with users but are also intuitively designed and effective in their functionality.
